URGENT UPDATE

Is your law enforcement agency ready to tackle the growing threat of IDENTITY THEFT? If not, why not? Not a day goes by without at least one story in the news regarding an identity theft crime. But, less often you see an article about the capture of the thieves.

The class of criminals engaged in this crime has changed from small time street level thieves stealing mail and credit cards to sophisticated hackers stealing thousands of social security numbers, and other vital information at one time.

The National Law Enforcement Identity Theft Summit™ will take place in Myrtle Beach, SC from October 28-30, 2009. This is the first event of its kind to take place and is geared to train law enforcement personnel to effectively confront the fastest growing crime in America.

“Identity theft is a worldwide pandemic. It’s not restricted to corporations and stolen computers from the Veteran’s Administration. More than one third of the world’s population has been exposed,” said Mark Priganc, the founder of the summit and author of Identity Theft: The Personal Guide.

The summit will educate law enforcement officers from local and state level to catch and prosecute those involved in it. Speakers will include experts from within law enforcement, industry experts, and providers of identity theft protection services.

UPDATE

Due to the overwhelming generosity of several community oriented foundations: The tuition for the National Law Enforcement Identity Theft Summit has been reduced by up to $400.00.

These foundations recognize the NOW need for education on the crime of Identity Theft, especially in the current economic crisis our country is enduring, and law enforcement budget cuts.

Their desire to bring awareness and preparation to the people, coupled with law enforcement education, has enabled us to reduce the tuition by nearly 50%.

The only thing missing now is your department. Register today while we still have space available:
